

The Stanford Daily

FOOTBALL ISSUE
NOVEMBER 9, 1974
STANFORD, CALIF.
VOL. 166S, NO. 6

In today's Daily ...

- The Game For All The Marbles page 3
mutual animosity is enough to keep the Stanford-USC rivalry brewing. The Rose Bowl doesn't hurt
- Add A Touch Of Vengeance page 3
Card seniors eye one last shot at popping the Trojans
- Killing Me Swiftly With One Zonk page 4
Stanford returner Ray Anderson risks life and litigation on every runback
- Stranger In A Strange Land page 5
USC coach John McKay's last visit to The Farm was one he'd rather forget. The feeling's mutual
- There's Church Tomorrow page 6 or, rather, a tomorrow for Bob Church, the only non-senior in Stanford's defensive front
- All In The Family page 7
Fat Haden's been like a son to coach McKay. Now he's wondering if father knows best
- Worth A Thousand Words pages 10, 11
photos of the L.A. Coliseum on a hazy afternoon, when smog wasn't the only tear-jerker
- 400 Miles Make A World Of Difference ... page 13
the stretch separates two similar universities which are yet worlds apart
- A Rah From Those A Little Rare page 15
unlike their more cultured (?) elders in the next section over, the YMCAers let their voices be heard
- plus rosters, statistics, team comparisons

Jack Christiansen, caught in the middle of the dispute after

Gordy Riegel

If the atmosphere seems to suggest a

Eric Test